MASTERPIECES

Finest Alpine spirits

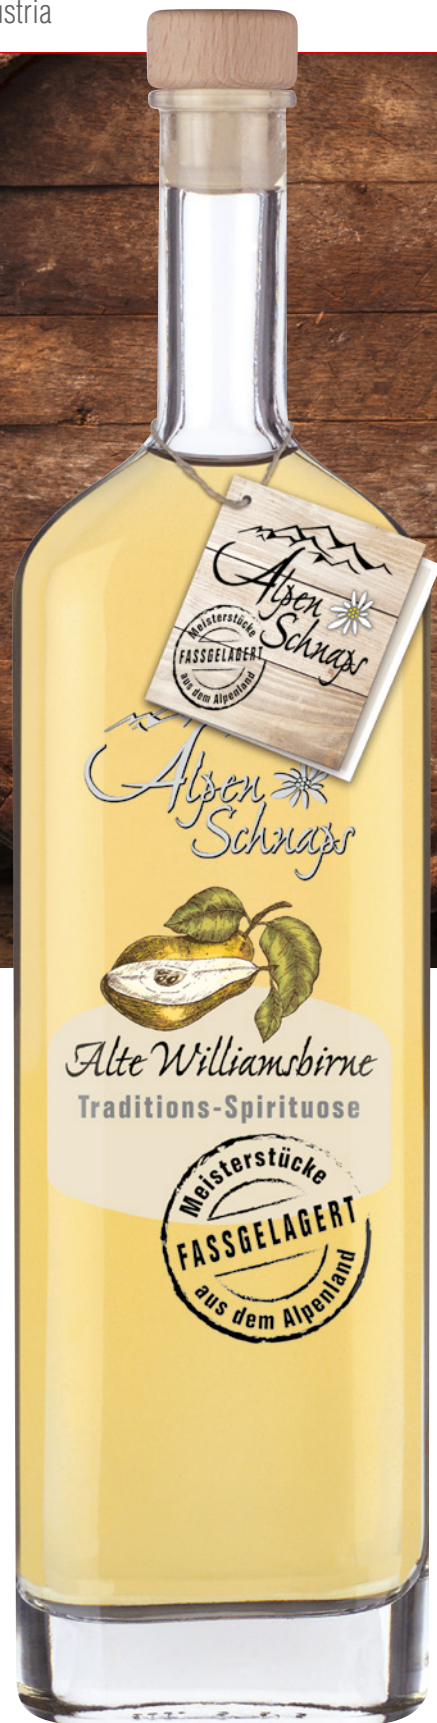

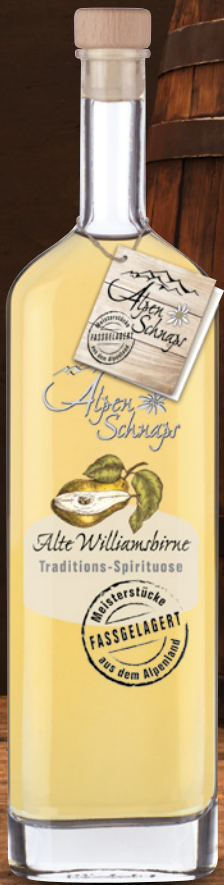

They are the pride and joy of our master distiller and the manifest proof of his experience and virtuoso craftsmanship: selected varieties of Alpine spirits with exclusive note of oak barrel storage.

A true feast for the senses awaits the connoisseur here: rich and fruity flavours accompany an unmistakable, complex fullness of taste that inspires with its astounding mildness. Our masterpieces!

Only really outstanding fruit distillates are good enough to deserve the flavour of sherry barrels made of American red oak.

Not before many months of careful ripening the unmistakable instinct of our master distiller decides when the big moment has come: the abstraction of a strictly limited quantity directly from the barrels into the exclusive master distiller's bottles.

OLD HAZELNUT

Gently roasted hazelnuts provide the characteristic, fine nut flavour with a delicate caramel note.

OLD APRICOT

Selected, sun-ripened apricots give this noble spirit a fruity flavour with a light pit note.

SCHNAPPSOLOGY

Interesting facts

SPIRITS

Spirits are distillates from fruits with characteristic flavour, but too little natural fruit sugar. Since therefrom can be obtained too little alcohol (e.g. elderberry spirit), the fruits are preserved in neutral alcohol for a certain time during which the alcohol extracts the fruit's typical flavours. During the following distillation alcohol and flavour get into the distillate.

FRUIT BRANDIES

Fruit brandies gain the complete amount of alcohol during by alcoholic fermentation (transformation of the natural fruit sugar into alcohol). The fruits are crushed or puréed and ferment naturally. The fermented mixture called mash is distilled afterwards. The amount of the recovered distillate depends on the quality and consistence of the fruits.

GLASS

Thus, fragrance and aroma of the fruit brandies can fully unfold, they should be enjoyed out of suitable drinking glasses. Best suited for fruit spirits is the classic tulip-shaped glass with stem.

STORAGE

Fruit brandies and spirit should always be stored dark, cool and well sealed. The bottles should always be stored upright. Conditional to manufacturing, the spirits lose their flavour after first opening faster than fruit brandies. Stone fruit brandies such as apricot, greenage, or plum brandies retain their flavour even after several years of storage.

USE

Fruit brandies and spirit are often enjoyed pure or as digestive, also for coffee or as part of a fruity long drink. Brandies are also well suited for refining desserts, for cooking and baking.

DRINKING TEMPERATURE

Fruit and berry brandies should be served cool, but never ice cold, otherwise the flavour can not fully unfold. Fruit spirits are best tempered between 10–12 °C, stone fruit brandies such as plum brandies between 14–16 °C. The drinking temperature of Williams pear brandy is slightly higher at 16–18 °C.
